Parents sometimes feel stuck in negative behavior patterns with their children and teens. It is possible to break the cycle and work with your children in a caring and supportive way that encourages positive behaviors.

Start by investing just one hour with WellSpan Philhaven’s experienced mental health professionals for Encouraging Positive Behavior, an Education Support Group for Parents and Givers. The group is open for those caring for children ages 2-18.

Please note:
This is not counseling, therapy, medical or legal advice. This is also not a crisis resource. This is a resource for caregivers to be able to share their current issues/concerns and receive some support and helpful tips.
